Arthur Liman Addresses Issues of Iran/Contra Affair

Arthur Liman

Arthur Liman, who served as the chief counsel to the Senate Select Committee on the Iran/Contra Affair, will discuss the investigation from an insider's vantage point. His lecture on "Ethics in Government: The Iran/Contra Affair," co-sponsored by the Men's Club and the Sherr Institute and coordinated by Judge Lewis R. Friedman, will take place on Tuesday, February 2 at 7 p.m.

A distinguished lawyer who has enjoyed a long career in private practice and public scrutiny, Mr. Liman found himself in a starring role last summer for his part in the televised Senate hearings.

An overflow audience is expected and so please come early for a good seat.

CONGREGATION TO CELEBRATE PURIM AT MASQUE BALL

Dr. Nahum Sarna Scholar-In-Residence At Shabbaton

Dr. Nahum Sarna

Dr. Nahum Sarna, one of the world's leading Bible scholars, will be the Scholar-In-Residence at the Shabbaton, Friday, January 8 through Saturday, January 9 at Park Avenue Synagogue.

An invitation has been extended by mail to the congregation to participate in this outstanding experience of learning together within the context of traditional Shabbat observance. Please respond promptly as space is limited.

Dr. Sarna will deliver the Dorothy Tager Lectures during the Shabbaton on "Exploring Exodus." These lectures are sponsored by the Dorothy Tager Education Fund, a fund established as a living memorial to Dorothy Tager, who was an active participant in the Adult Education Program at Park Avenue Synagogue.

Peggy Tishman Discusses Jewish Unity At Women's Evening Group Service

Peggy Tishman, the first president of the recently merged United Jewish Appeal and the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, will be the guest speaker at the Women's Evening Group Shabbat Service on Friday, January 29 at 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Tishman will address the issue of "Jewish Unity."

Mrs. Tishman is a long-time leader of both Federation and the UJA-Federation Campaign. She was president of the Jewish Community Relations Council of New York and is a director of the Jewish Theological Seminary, a vice president of the Council of Jewish Federations, a director of HIAS and a member of the Board of Trustees

Purim is coming!

Have you heard about the fabulous Purim Masque Ball that is being planned to celebrate Purim?

On Sunday, February 28, beginning at 6 p.m., the congregation is invited to enter the Garden of Enchanted Delights on the Lower Level for an evening of dining, dancing and surprise entertainment. Nothing is being spared to enthrall the descendants of Queen Esther and her Cousin Mordecai.

Guests are encouraged to use their imagination and come in costume and/or mask and/or festive extravagant dress and participate in the costume parade.

There will be an open bar in appreciation of the injunction to drink and be merry.

There is an open Talent Call set for Sunday, January 10 at 11 a.m. in Room 210 for those who wish to participate in the entertainment. Wanted are dancers for the male chorus line and the female chorus line, choral singers, magicians, belly dancers, clowns, etc. No previous experience necessary, just enthusiasm and the desire to have fun.

The Megillah will be read in the sanctuary on Wednesday, March 2, beginning at 5:45 p.m. The Purim Carnival, produced by the High School students for the youngsters of our congregation and the community, will take place on Sunday, March 6, from 12 Noon to 3 p.m. in the Lemberg Auditorium.

Hag Purim Sameach!! Happy Purim!!

Paul Goldberger Guest Speaker At Couples Club Service

Paul Goldberger, Architectural Critic for The New York Times, will be the guest speaker at the Couples Club Shabbat Service, Friday evening, February 26 at 8 p.m.

Mr. Goldberger will speak on "Designing New York: The Importance of New Buildings and the Future of Urban Life." He has been the Architecture Critic for The Times for fifteen years. Many congregants will remember the glowing review he gave our new school building upon its completion in an article published in The Times at the time the building was dedicated.

He is the author of three books: The City Observed: New York; The Skyscraper; On The Rise: Architecture and Design in a Postmodern Age. In 1984, he received the Pulitzer Prize and currently is working on a book on how to look at architecture.

The congregation and community are cordially invited to attend the service and the Oneg Shabbat which follows.

Ukrainians and Jews

The Demjanjuk trial in Israel has once again brought to the fore the complicated relationship between Jews and Ukrainians. It is interesting to reflect that the repercussions of that relationship deeply affected Zionist history.

The events leading up to the assassination of Simon Petlura, Chief Ataman of the Ukrainian Republic in a Paris street on May 25, 1926 and the subsequent trial of Solomon Schwartzbard have been well documented in the book, Pogrom-chick, by Professor Saul Friedman. The period of the Independent Ukraine from March, 1917 to August, 1920 and the pogroms that accompanied that experiment is not only remembered because of the ghastly cruelties of the Haidamaks, but also because of the shadow cast over the memory of Z'ev Jabotinsky, the leader of Zionist revisionism. Jabotinsky's biographer has devoted a chapter to the strange story of number of meetings that took place in Czechoslovakia in August, 1921 between Jabotinsky and a friend of long standing, Maxim Slavinsky, a Ukrainian nationalist who represented the mission of the Ukrainian Democratic Republic in Czechoslovakia.

The background of this meeting is a fascinating one. During the turbulent period of the Russian Civil War, the Jews found themselves in an appalling predicament. Towns and villages changed hands repeatedly. When the Bolsheviks entered they would accuse Jews of being sympathetic to the Central Rada, and, as some had undoubtedly achieved prominence as local commissars, the suspicion of Soviet sympathies was levelled against them by the nationalists. Just how much the Commander-In-Chief of the Ukrainian Armed Forces, Holovni Ataman Simon Petlura, knew of the atrocities seems still to be in doubt. It has been claimed by his admirers that whether he was aware or not, there was little he could do to control the shocking excesses of lawless irregulars. It is certainly true that he did set up a Jewish Volunteers Needed!

Volunteers are needed by the Jewish Board of Family and Children's Services to assist a much needed out-reach program of the agency — Volunteer Services to AIDS Clients (VSAC).

JBFCFS has been in the forefront of responding to the AIDS epidemic and the needs of its AIDS clients. While providing needed professional services to its AIDS clients, the agency soon recognized the need for volunteers who would break the isolation AIDS clients experience.

No special skills are necessary and orientation, training and support are provided volunteers by the professional staff.

For more information, please call Betty Forman at 582-9100, ext. 329.

All About Tu Bishevat

Tu Bishevat, the New Year for Trees, begins at sundown, Tuesday, February 2 and concludes at sundown, Wednesday, February 3.

The rabbis of the Talmud speak of the New Year for Trees. According to the School of Shammai it was to be celebrated on the first day of the Hebrew month of Shevat, but the School of Hillel said that it was to be observed on the 15th day of the month of Shevat. It was the decision of the School of Hillel that was accepted popularly and since the days of the First Century, C.E., the 15th day of the month of Shevat has been celebrated as the New Year for Trees.

This minor holiday is also called Hamishah Asar be-Shevat, which means the 15th day of Shevat. It is also called Tu be-Shevat, the Hebrew letters Tet and Vav standing for the number 15 and the two letters together are popularly pronounced Tu.

No special liturgy or festivity is described for the day but it is customary to eat fruits that grow in Israel, such as figs, dates, carobs, etc.

In Israel today, the ancient practice of planting trees has been revived and school children and others do so on Tu Bishevat. In our Religious School, the children plant trees in Israel through the Jewish National Fund.

Sisterhood To Screen "Gentlemen's Agreement"

Sisterhood invites its members and friends to a screening of the Academy Award winning film "Gentlemen's Agreement" on Tuesday, January 19 at 1 p.m.

The screenplay, based on the novel by Laura Z. Hobson, was written by Moss Hart; Elia Kazan was the director. Gregory Peck won an Oscar for his portrayal of a writer who "passes" as a Jew in order to investigate the prevalence of anti-semitism in the United States.

Leah Shakdiel Speaks At Women's Evening Group Pot Luck Supper Meeting

Ms. Leah Shakdiel will be the guest speaker at the Women's Evening Group "for members only" pot luck supper on Monday, February 29. This meeting will take place in the home of a member and all members of the Women's Evening Group will receive an invitation by mail.

Women who wish to join the Women's Evening Group and thus be invited to attend this parlor meeting can still do so by mailing a check, made out to Women's Evening Group, for the $25 annual dues, to Park Avenue Synagogue, 50 East 87th St., New York, N.Y. 10128, attn.: WEG. First year members of the synagogue have only to express their interest in membership to become members.

Ms. Shakdiel's visit to the United States is under the auspices of the New Israel Fund and the Fund and WEG are co-sponsoring her appearance.

Ms. Shakdiel found herself in the eye of a hurricane last year when her nomination to serve on the religious council of the small development town in which she lives with her husband and three children was challenged by the Religious Affairs Ministry. The case is expected to go to the Supreme Court of Israel because of the civil and religious issues that it raises. Ms. Shakdiel will discuss the background of her case which has received international attention and her struggle as an Orthodox woman to serve on the religious council of her town.

There will be a question and answer period.

Parents Association Sponsors Panel Discussion On Money

ALL parents of children in the Mazer School of Religious Studies — Early Childhood Center, Religious School and High School — are invited to participate in a panel discussion on "Teaching Our Children the Value of Money," on Thursday, January 28 at 8 p.m.

What is money for, anyway? Is it to buy a package of gum that your child sees while waiting on line in the supermarket check-out? Is it to buy that pair of the latest and newest designer jeans that everyone is wearing? Why is money a problem? Can children be taught that there is a value to money? If so, how? These questions and others will be explored by a panel of experts. Come and share your views.

Couples Club Invites You To Dance The Night Away

Put on your dancing shoes and come to the synagogue on Saturday night, January 23 ready for an evening of fun!

The Couples Club invites you to dust off your dancing skills, take your partner in your arms, learn or relearn some basic steps from a professional and then spend the rest of the evening having a grand time with good friends, new friends.

Refreshments, of course. Admission is only $25 a person and includes everything!! The fun begins at 8 p.m.

Ukrainians and Jews

Ministry within his government and Jews were appointed to government posts. The suspicion of complicity or, at best, turning a blind eye was sufficient for a French jury to acquit Schwartzbard of his murder in later years.

After a series of set-backs, Petlura was driven from his homeland. A force of some 15,000 armed men waited in Poland in two military camps with plans for an invasion of the Soviet Ukraine in the Spring of 1922. Once again there was concern for the Jewish population should these troops succeed in an incursion. Jabotinsky's meeting with Slavinsky was for the purpose of setting up a Jewish defense militia that was not to take part in any fighting but was to defend the peaceful population of the towns under Ukrainian occupation. Because of a lack of international support the invasion never took place and the Communists formally established their rule over the whole area. For Jabotinsky, however, it was to herald a period of criticism and abuse which he did not anticipate.

The Jewish world was divided and many saw the agreement as the "pact with the Devil." These consisted mostly of the Poalei Zion and other Socialists who perhaps still hoped to gain the sympathy of the Soviet regime. Others, mostly the Orthodox and more conservative elements, realized that this was the act of a man deeply concerned with the well-being of his people and a necessary undertaking.

Jabotinsky hoped that the furor would die down, but his enemies continued to use it against him for the rest of his life. Finally, he too was driven in desperation to remark that he was even more proud of the Petlura Agreement than his part in founding the Jewish Legion in World War I and that when he died his epitaph could be: "This was the man who made a pact with Petlura." The fears that any agreement with rightist nationalist groups would endanger hopes for a Zionist-Soviet understanding were unwarranted. The Soviets, after an initial protest, forgot the whole matter and clamped down on Zionism anyway.

In today's world of accommodations, sell-outs and compromise the outcry caused at the time seems almost incomprehensible. Jabotinsky's deep love and concern for Jewish lives may be appreciated today even by his detractors. Jewish history has shown that occasionally a pact with the Devil is perfectly justified, especially when reputed saints and angels prove to be a disappointment.

Musical Reflections

Recently I have had two occasions to note the enormous potential music has for minimizing differences among people, especially Jews from different Jewish political and religious backgrounds because I am saddened, as are many others, to see how destructive the growing factionalism among Jewish groups is to the essential unity of the Jewish people.

Not too long ago I attended a two day conference at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America on Jewish music entitled "Varied Voices." Many diverse Jewish musical cultures were presented by living exponents of these cultures giving the participants not only much musical pleasure, but also much needed knowledge. Especially moving for me was the revelation of the music and dignified religious worship that was the hallmark of the German Jewish community prior to the Holocaust. It was this experience that led me to prepare the Liturgical Music Service last month for presentation to you.

Interesting to note, too, is that the only noticeable remains of this tradition is a score of congregational tunes that have been absorbed from the choral music of this German Jewish Reform movement, tunes which constitute the bulk of the "traditional" melodies sung today in American Orthodox and Conservative synagogues.

The second musical experience was a superlative organ concert which took place in Park Avenue Synagogue to mark the opening of the Herman Berlinski Archive at the Sabin Music Center of the Jewish Theological Seminary. Mr. Berlinski, a distinguished organist and composer, played his composition on our magnificent new organ for an appreciative audience of Jews and gentiles which filled our sanctuary.

My point is quite simple. Music remains the universal language and it brings people together, reaching the heart and soul of the listener in a profound manner. It can breach artificial barriers to our understanding of one another. Let us remember to use this tool to understanding as often as is possible.

—David Lefkowitz

New Semester Begins In Sherr Institute

The new semester begins in the Sherr Institute of Adult Jewish Studies the first week in January.

Dr. Neil Gillman, Associate Professor of Philosophies of Judaism at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will teach two courses in the Sherr Institute this semester. On five Wednesday evenings beginning on January 6 at 8 p.m., he will teach a course entitled The Sacred and the Profane. In this course he will examine Judaism from the perspective of Social Science, which views religion as an expression of the ongoing needs and concerns of human beings and their communities. In the course, The Book of Job, Dr. Gillman will review the message of Job as it has been interpreted by great thinkers, Jews and Gentiles, through the ages. "The Book of Job" will meet on five Wednesday evenings beginning on February 10 at 8 p.m.

Parents whose children will celebrate their Bar- and Bat Mitzvah during this year and next are invited to participate in a course "Bar- and Bat-Mitzvah Parents Primer" which will meet for three Monday evenings from 8-9 p.m. and one Saturday morning from 11:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m. in January. On January 4, Rabbi Wechsler will discuss The Origins and Structure of the Shabbat Morning Service. On January 11, Cantor Lefkowitz will present The Music of the Shabbat Morning Service. Rabbi Lincoln will give a lecture on The Reading of the Torah and the Haftarah on January 25 and Cantor Kula will meet with parents on Saturday morning, January 30 at 11:30 a.m. to discuss Bar- and Bat-Mitzva Preparation from the Teacher's Point of View.

Rabbi Lincoln gives a course on The Talmudic Laws of Marriage on five Thursdays beginning January 14 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Samuel Klagsburn returns once again in March to present a three-session course of his popular "On The Couch" series. This year it will be the Prophet Samuel who will be placed on the psychiatrist's couch on three Wednesdays in March — March 16, 23 and 30 — from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

High School Summer Trip To Eastern Europe, Israel Recalled On January 26

Members of the congregation are invited to attend a presentation on Tuesday, January 26 at 8 p.m. by the High School students who participated in the travel program this past summer to Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania and Israel.

A mixed media presentation of slides, photos and personal impressions will enable those present to share this intensely personal journey of discovery of Jewish roots of a most significant kind.

Part of this program, along with a photographic display, was presented by a number of our High School students at the Kristallnacht Commemoration held at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America on November 8.

Come. Travel with our students and learn of the people they met and the sites they visited. Ask questions. Learn of their impressions of this unique, emotionally charged experience.

The High School wishes to thank the Board of Trustees, the Howard A. Kieval Memorial Scholarship Fund and private contributors for their financial and moral support of this summer travel program.

Read it and come discuss it on January 11 at 8 p.m. in the Rothschild Library. The group will meet again on February 22 at 8 p.m. in the Library, to discuss a book which will be chosen at its January session.

Rabbi Wechsler will conduct an examination of The Book of Jeremiah during Lunch 'N' Study, a course which takes place in mid-town during the lunch hour. Those who wish to study with Rabbi Wechsler at this time of day should call his secretary a week before the start of the course on February 2 to find out its location.

On Tuesday evening, January 26, Cantor Lefkowitz will lecture on The Masters of Melody in the Modern Synagogue in honor of the start of Jewish Music Month. He will be accompanied by our organist, Neil Robinson, and the Synagogue Choir. All are welcome to attend.

Nancy Samalin's workshop course on Parents & Children: A Workshop on Communications Skills will return March first to conduct what has become a most popular course in the Sherr Institute.

Dr. Livia Straus will teach a course on Judeo-Medical Ethics on three Thursday evenings beginning February 18 at 8 p.m.

Hebrew language courses will continue to be given during the day and in the evening on all levels.

Park Avenue Synagogue Goes To Washington

Pictured here is a part of the contingent from Park Avenue Synagogue that joined the more than 200,000 Jews who assembled in Washington, D.C. on Sunday, December 6, 1987 to march and rally in support of Soviet Jewry, sending the message to General Secretary Gorbachev to "Let My People Go!"

Three Seminars To Address Teens and Crisis

Three seminars which will discuss issues relevant to teenagers and their parents will take place on three Wednesdays — January 6, February 3 and March 9.

On January 6, the seminar will focus on "Teenage Suicide." From 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. there will be a student workshop followed by supper at 6 p.m. and then a parent workshop from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. The workshop will be under the direction of Dr. Peter Pitzele, Resident Psychiatrist at Four Winds Hospital in Katonah, N.Y.

"AIDS — A Contemporary Plague" will be the topic of the next seminar on February 3. There will be two workshop programs, one for students at 4:30 p.m. and one for parents at 7:30 p.m. The panel discussants will be Dr. Samuel Klagsbrun, Director of Four Winds Hospital; Dr. Livia Straus, Dr. Steven Straus, Director of Infectious Diseases at the National Institutes of Health and Rabbi Harlan J. Wechsler.

Mr. Danny Siegel, author and poet, has been invited to lead the third workshop on "Coping with Evil by Doing Good" on March 9.

These seminars are open to our High School students and their parents.

PASSingles Plan A Sunday Brunch and Friday Eve Services

PASSingles, for Jewish single men and women age 30-50, are invited to three events this winter: a Brunch on Sunday, January 10 at 12 Noon with admission at $15 a person and two Friday evening services and Ongei Shabbat, one on January 15 and the other on February 12.

Rabbi David H. Lincoln will speak on "The Mysterious Origins of Hassidism" at the Friday evening Service on January 15 at 8:30 p.m. and Rabbi Harlan J. Wechsler will speak on "If Everybody Is So Happy, Why Are We So Sad?" at the Friday evening Service on February 12 at 8:30 p.m.

Need For Continued Pressure On Soviets To Release Jews

Two members of our congregation, Enid and Alexander Fisher, recently returned from a trip to the Soviet Union where they met with Soviet Refuseniks and they had this to say about their experience:

"... The March in Washington on Sunday, December 6 was a climax to our trip because it enabled us to actively put pressure on our government on behalf of Soviet Jews.

"It is easy for us in the United States to become lulled into a feeling of complacency when we read about Glasnost and about long-time Soviet Refuseniks who have received their freedom from the USSR. The Refuseniks with whom we met were anything but complacent. They had not experienced less job discrimination, since many of them have not worked at their professional careers for the last ten to twelve years. The restrictions placed on their visa applications have not been removed and they do not have the freedom to practice their religion.

"Therefore, it is necessary that we continue to demonstrate our support for the Jews being held hostage in the Soviet Union."

ALL ABOUT OUR SCHOOL

Editor's Note: In this last issue of the BULLETIN, we began a special report on the Mazer School of Religious Studies. We continue this report in this issue focusing on the High School and Religious School programs. In the next issue we will present information on the Early Childhood Center.

The Parents Association & The Mazer School

The Parents Association of Park Avenue Synagogue has an usually broad constituency, serving the school populations of the Early Childhood Center, the Religious School and the High School. The complementary goals of the Parents Association are to support and enrich the educational offerings of the schools, to serve as a liaison between parents and the schools and to provide stimulating and informative programs for parents which address issues of concern to them.

The support which Parents Association provides the schools extends far beyond the snacks provided before Hebrew School, the grade dinners and the holiday celebrations. The monies raised each year through the Book Fair and the Passover candy and wine sales have purchased trikes for the Early Childhood Center, a piano for the Religious School, computer and video equipment for the High School, subsidized High School trips, underwritten the costs of our children's participation in the Salute to Israel parade, among other activities.

Programs offered to parents in the last few years have included panel discussions on what should we tell our children about the Holocaust, social pressures on New York children, programs for Early Childhood Center parents to assist them in applying to schools, study breakfasts on topics such as "Can Hanukkah Hold A Candle to Christmas?" and discussing death with young children, and speakers on topics ranging from discipline to street smarts.

Underlying all the activities and programs of Parents Association is a fundamental philosophical premise and commitment: to merely drop the children off at Park Avenue Synagogue and pick them up again is not enough. Children will derive more benefits from their Jewish education if it is continuous with the home setting and if they can see their parent's interest, involvement and commitment. Parents Association endeavors to help children concretely perceive that interest and commitment.

Last February I was privileged to attend a conference on "Accountability in Jewish Education" with Dr. Livia Straus and Walter Charnizon, a member of the High School faculty. Representatives of School Boards and educators from Hebrew Schools nationwide came together to discuss the roles of the schools, parents and School Boards in the Jewish education of children. I came away from this conference pleased with the degree of cooperation that exists at Park Avenue Synagogue between the schools, parent body and congregation. I believe that it is this central concern and cooperation that is the source of the strength of our schools.

New York City parents, like their New York City children, are busy and sometimes over-programmed. Parents Association is especially sensitive to the competing demands of careers and the parents groups of the children's secular schools. Nevertheless, parent volunteers are needed during the year to continue our programs. In addition, parents are invited to act as class parents and to assist in preparations for school sedarim. Further, in order to continue to provide a forum for discussion that informs and stimulates parents, Parents Association needs to hear directly from parents about issues that concern them.

— Dorothy Denburg
President, Parents Association

What's It's Like To Be A High School Student

The Park Avenue Synagogue High School is somewhat of a mystery to many people. "How do they get teenagers to voluntarily spend an extra 5½ hours a week in school?" many an outsider asks.

The truth is, I don't think of the Hebrew High School as a continuation of "school" on Wednesdays or an extra day of "school" on Sundays. The High School is more like a community. It is a place where I can talk about the issue of Soviet Jewry or help prepare a float for the Israeli Day Parade over bagels in the lounge. It is a place where I can stay late for a pizza dinner and a lecture by a celebrated Jewish author. It is a place in which I feel part of a Jewish community.

Now don't get me wrong. There are classes in the Hebrew High School and great ones at that. The teachers put a lot of effort into formulating interesting, creative courses that lend themselves to stimulating discussion and heated debates. The curriculum is varied so that students can choose courses as different as a current events seminar, an art workshop, a Bible study session.

The High School's structure is very loose. To an outsider it might seem non-existent. For though the traditional implements of structure like homework, tests, report cards and mandatory attendance are absent, there is something special about the people here that holds the High School together.

Both the teachers and the students want to be at the Hebrew High School every Sunday morning and Wednesday afternoon. Each teacher has his/her own special character, which he/she combines with enthusiasm to plan exciting classes and successful special events such as weekend retreats. The students are not at the High School because their parents make them come. At Park Avenue Synagogue High School it is not considered 'cool' to skip classes or to complain about being there. It is 'cool' to work devotedly for a cause like the Food Pantry or Project Ezra. The students that are most admired by their peers are the ones who stay up until midnight planning the Purim Carnival or organizing some such festivity.

Park Avenue Synagogue High School is a rich source of Jewish education. It is a place to learn Hebrew on any level, to study Mishnah and to learn about Shabbat. But, just as importantly, the High School is a community in which teenagers can develop and maintain their Jewish identities. Just being at the Hebrew High School a teenager can feel Jewish, a feeling which is all too often forgotten amid Geometry tests, American History papers and college applications.

ALL ABOUT OUR SCHOOL

An Invaluable Education

Needless to say, the words "Hebrew School" evoke in my mind an image of two hours of intense seat-wriggling, eye-rolling and suppressed fidgeting. I believe that I will never forget the numerous times when I explained to friends that the reason I could not accompany them to a movie or go for pizza on Tuesdays and Thursdays was because I had to attend Hebrew School.

Yet, once inside, Hebrew School certainly had its attractions. Besides gradually learning that one must always inspect apples for worm holes, I developed some very close friendships. Although I have now switched my secular schools, and my best friends are no longer going to Hebrew School, I have managed to remain in close contact with them and feel that we hold a special experience in common.

But, perhaps more than that, my religious education gives me in some ways another identity. It allows me to feel anger when I hear about prejudices, to feel a certain tinge of pride when I hear in history class what the "Hebrews" have accomplished. And the basic Jewish traditions that I learned about in Hebrew School help to keep these feelings alive. Reading Genesis in each of the three years that I have gone to Park Avenue Synagogue's school has given me a familiarity and fondness with the text. Just the other day I attempted to read in Hebrew and to my amazement found that although it was rusty I had retained most of what I had been taught. Apparently all the drilling and homework that I was so resentful of having to do in addition to regular school work paid off. I remember well one of the teachers at Hebrew School with whom I was thrilled to apply the debating skills I was learning in my secular school, and the enjoyment with which I viewed my friends dread in entering a class that kept one wide awake and at the edge of the seat. Maybe it was my Bat Mitzvah, which was a religious experience that I will never forget, the culmination of all my training plus something more. But from that strict and formal religious schooling there came a desire to continue in the High School.

Developing Curricular Goals and Techniques For the Mazer School of Religious Studies

Our long range goal is to produce an involved Jewish adult. Our short range goals contribute to this. We attempt to teach expertise in the reading of Hebrew and a basis for learning to speak Hebrew, since Hebrew is the unifying language of Jews worldwide. Through prayers, which are recited during Shabbat, holidays and on a daily basis, we come to understand the mystique of having fellow nationals around the world uttering the same words at the same time. We also learn of our history and of the emotional upheavals of the eras which generated the specific prayers. What place does our belief in God play in our prayers and in ritual practice? Through the study of History and Bible we learn about our common roots and of the paths which have led us to be what we are today. If Judaism propounds caring for another, then social action projects speak louder than words and tell more than books. If ritual is not dead, then Shabbat services must be practiced as reality. These programs, enhanced by music and art, taught by caring and knowledgeable faculty, reinforced in the home, all contribute to our attempt to reach our stated goal.

Our students are extremely perceptive, quick to question and do battle, eager to learn. The Passover Haggadah tells us that for each personality there is a teaching method that works. At our school we try to meet the challenge of searching for the best techniques of incorporating change and of learning from others.

In the words of Shammi, a Rabbi who lived in the First Century, B.C.E.:

"Fix a period for thy study of Torah, say little and do much, and receive all men with a cheerful countenance."

School Zimrya Smash Hit

In anticipation of the coming of Hanukkah, the children of the Mazer School of Religious Studies presented a musical review in Hebrew to an overflow audience on Sunday afternoon, December 13. All who attended were unanimous in their praise of this joyous event.

A Hanukkah Sing-A-Long, led by Cantor Mark Kula, preceded the musical review. Candle lighting and traditional refreshments (latkes with applesauce, donuts and apple juice) followed the performance.

We are informed that this event was the "first annual." We can't wait to see what treat is in store for all of us next Hanukkah!!

Notes From The Library

The Rothschild Library, located on the second floor, is open for resting, browsing, reading and study. Parents calling for children may wait for them in the Library.

The Library is open:
Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3-6 p.m.
Wednesdays, 3:30-6:30 p.m.
Sundays, 9:30 a.m.-12 Noon

Please note that the Library will be CLOSED on Sunday, January 3; Monday, January 18; Sunday and Monday, February 14 and 15.

In celebration of Jewish Book Month, the Rothschild Library joined with the Religious School in promoting a Jewish "Read-A-Thon." Each class visited the Library and students were asked to write a report on the book they checked out and give it to the Librarian. Each Library visit was preceded by a story telling period with a professional story teller. Each student who checked out a book received a Sponsor Sheet where they recorded sponsors for the number of pages and/or books read. The monies collected from sponsors was donated to the Jewish Braille Institute and each student who participated in the "Read-A-Thon" received a prize from the Religious School.

The Library expresses its appreciation and thanks to the following people for their donations to the Library through the Parents Association Book Fair:

Alexander Ascher.
Peter and Michelle Bernstein.
Stephen Blank, Matthew Blank,
Rebecca Blank, Cassondra and Joseph.
The Blitzer Family.
The Cohen Family.
Joyce and Murray Cohen.
Marc S. Eisen.
Leslie and Annie Falk.
In memory of Jack Heller.
Joseph Jacob Kekst.
Marc and Elisabeth Lerner.
Mendelle and Martin Milston.
Parents Association.

New books are added daily to the adult and juvenile collections. Visit the library soon and borrow a book or two or three.

Future Cantors From Our Choir?

YES, it is true. Over the years, singers who have performed regularly in our synagogue choir have chosen to become full or part-time cantors.

Two people who have been in our regular quartet for many years have recently become involved in Hazzanut. Joan Fuerstman, mezzo-soprano in our weekly choir since 1981, our High Holy Day choir since 1977 and singing in our Liturgical Music Services for many years before that, has served as the High Holy Day Cantor for the last two years at the parallel service of one of our neighbor congregations. In addition, she conducted Sabbath services there this past summer and during November conducted Sabbath services at another temple in Brooklyn. David Ronis, our tenor for many years, has been in increasing demand for opera performances in the United States and in Europe. This past September he put his early synagogue training as well as his Park Avenue Synagogue experience to work and conducted High Holy Day services in Grand Rapids, MI.

Two young women who sang in our choir decided to enter the School of Sacred Music and become full-time ordained cantors. Mikhal Shiff, the daughter of a synagogue choir leader, has since graduated and is now a cantor in Commack, Long Island. Anne Lynne Bernstein, the daughter of a cantor, is nearing graduation and will assume her cantorial responsibilities at a synagogue in Teaneck, New Jersey.

A member of our choir under the late Hazzan David J. Putterman and also on numerous occasions since then, Mary Finesinger also has had cantorial experience.

Congratulations

The congregation extends a hearty Mazal Tov to:

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Aizer, upon the birth of their third grandchild, Matthew Joseph Cohen.

Mrs. Lannie Goodman, upon the marriage of her daughter, Julie Ann Epstein, to Steven Dennis Rubin.

Hon. and Mrs. Bruce Gould, upon the birth of their grandson, Andrew Jacob Kagan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey S. Kahn, upon the birth of daughter, Jennifer Kahn.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Oberman, upon the birth of their daughter, Abigail Land Oberman.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Penn, upon the birth of their daughter, Jacqueline Hannah Penn.

We Take Pride In:

Mrs. Ann Bialkin, president of Elem, an organization concerned with teenage delinquency in Israel, who received recognition from the Israeli Ministry of Labor and Social Affairs on behalf of Elem (Youth in Distress).

Mrs. Elizabeth Cats, who was appointed Associate Curator of the Obermayer Collection at Temple Rodeph Shalom, Philadelphia.

Mr. Harold Friedman, who was honored at a dinner of the Wall Street Division of UJA/Federation.

Dr. Sylvia N. Friedman, who received the 1987 Samuel and Rose Hurowitz Award for "furthering understanding and cooperation between the Rabbinate and the field of Social Work" given by the Commission on Synagogue Relations of UJA/Federation.

Mr. Herman G. Lane, who was honored by the Merchants and Salesmen's Club of Greater New York as its "Man of the Year."

Rabbi Judah Nadich, who was invited to speak at the 70th anniversary celebration of Temple Kehillath Israel, Brookline, Massachusetts, his congregation prior to assuming the pulpit at Park Avenue Synagogue.

Hon. Simon H. Rifkind and Rabbi Judah Nadich, about whom a chapter in the book, Yoetz u-Maikim, written in Hebrew by Professor Haim Genizi of the Bar Ilan University in Israel, is devoted. The chapter relates the role of the advisor of Jewish Affairs to the American Commanding General in Europe after World War II. Rabbi Nadich was the first military officer to be advisor to General Eisenhower and Judge Rifkind was the first civilian appointed to that post by President Harry S. Truman.

Mrs. Ramie J. Silbert, who was elected Chairman of the National Board of the Women's Division of the American Society for Technion.

Condolences

Park Avenue Synagogue extends heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved of our congregation and to their families:

Mr. Burton Kossoff, upon the death of his mother, Beatrice Kossoff.

Mrs. Miriam London, upon the death of her mother, Pearl Schechterson.

Mr. Arthur Liman, upon the death of his father, Harry K. Liman.

Mr. Alexander Neuwirth, upon the death of his sister, Loretta Gerstenfeld.

Mr. Barry Philip West, upon the death of his mother, Ethel West.

Mrs. Vicki Wimpfheimer, upon the death of her husband, Dr. Seymour Wimpfheimer; to Mrs. Hilda Davidson, upon the death of her brother and to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Irma Heller; to Mrs. Helen Wimpfheimer, upon the death of her brother-in-law; to Dr. and Mrs. Alan Davidson and Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Davidson, upon the death of their uncle.

Dr. Seymour Wimpfheimer Dies At Age 88

Dr. Seymour Wimpfheimer died on December 4, 1987 at the age of 88. At the time of his death he was an Honorary President of the congregation and a member of the Board of Trustees.

The Wimpfheimer family's association with Park Avenue Synagogue goes back to the roots of the congregation. Dr. Wimpfheimer himself joined the synagogue in the year the Sanctuary Building was erected on East 87th Street. Over the years, he and his wife Vicki have been deeply involved in the affairs of Park Avenue Synagogue. Married 51 years ago by Rabbi Milton Steinberg, their concern for the well-being of the synagogue made it a central interest in their lives.

Their five children attended the Religious School; their older three daughters being confirmed and their younger son and daughter celebrating their Bar Mitzvah with the congregation. Dr. Wimpfheimer served on many synagogue committees, was a vice-president, Vice-Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and then President of the Congregation from 1970 to 1975.

Over the years, Dr. Wimpfheimer was a generous contributor to the synagogue and he and his wife became major benefactors of the Building Fund at the time of the building construction of the new school building. His lifelong interest in Jewish education is reflected in the dedication of the area known as the Wimpfheimer Hall, the ground floor of the new building, which is dedicated to the school children, present and future, who will enter the building daily to receive Jewish education in our school.

Dr. Wimpfheimer was honored by Park Avenue Synagogue, the Federation and the Seminary. He was named Hatan Bereshit on Simhat Torah in 1960. Six years later, Federation of Jewish Philanthropies named him and his wife "Jewish Family of the Year." He was the guest of honor at a dinner given to benefit the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and in honor of the occasion he established a scholarship at the Seminary in honor of his wife, Vicki.

As a physician specializing in obstetrics and gynecology, he delivered hundreds of babies and cared for hundreds of mothers in his more than 50 years in practice. A friendly, caring, concerned man, Dr. Wimpfheimer was more than just a doctor. He became a friend of his patients and their families and remained so for years after his professional expertise was required.

Dr. Wimpfheimer was Clinical Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Mt. Sinai Medical School. He was former Chief of Gynecology at Montifiore Hospital as well as at Mt. Sinai Hospital. Among his many professional honors he was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons; a Diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and was elected as a member of the New York Obstetrical Society and the New York Gynecological Society.

He is survived by his wife, Vicki, five children, four grandchildren, his sister, Hilda Davidson, his sister-in-law, Helen Wimpfheimer, and his nephews, Drs. Alan and Franklin Davidson and their families.

May his memory remain as a blessing.
